

Singer-songwriter Terri Roben expects music to be more than just entertaining. With her warm, personable style and wide range of musical abilities, she engages audiences of all ages in interactive musical experiences that are educational and fun, often leading songs that involve movement, audience participation and sometimes other languages.

Terri plays guitar, banjo, ukulele, mountain lap dulcimer, and a little bit of drum. But her favorite instruments are those that are homemade and free, like spoons, coffee can drums, and your own voice.

Based in Saratoga County, NY, Terri has been singing at libraries, schools, festivals, coffeehouses, and other venues for many years. She is a registered Music Together teacher, leading 4 weekly classes for newborns to 5 year olds and their caregivers. She is also a member of the People's Music Network and the Children's Music Network, and serves on CMN's national board.

Terri Roben presents fun, interactive programs and concerts for children, families, and communities, promoting kindness and respect for each other, the earth and all living things. She entertains all ages, from 1 to 100!

In small and large venues, she also plays adult concerts, with original and cover songs, from folk to jazz to blues, with political, topical, and silly thrown into the mix.

Terri Roben would be a great addition to your upcoming program or event.

Minding Our Mother

What is a habitat? A water cycle? How is everything connected? Is it important for us to know how we affect the world around us? What does the earth give us? Through music, songs, instruments, interspersed with questions and answers, we explore some basic and interesting facts about the Earth and the environment. We learn how we all can help our world stay healthy, yet have fun while doing so. By the time we are through, you might even look differently at garbage, seeing what things actually remain useful to us, long after we think that they are not.

Insects are Interesting!

What is the difference between an insect, a bug, and a spider? Sing songs about the cool things they do, the ways they could hurt us, but also the many ways that they help us too! Explore how interesting these huge families of creatures really are through music, puppetry, laughter and lots of fun!

Terri has just released a brand new adult CD, "The Path We Make," joining two previous albums including "Riverwalk & Other Songs," an album for families that inspired Pete Seeger to write "You're a good songwriter - Keep on!"

To see the lyrics and listen to a sample, go to www.terriroben.com and click on Riverwalk album. Samples of "The Path We Make" will appear in the near future on this website and cdbaby.com.

Music For All Ages

Playing guitar, banjo, ukulele, mountain lap dulcimer, and other instruments, we'll sing-along to some old favorites, and learn some new easy songs, maybe even trying some movement to go with them! Try your hand at playing percussion instruments for some rollicking audience participation. This program can be adapted for any audience: babies, preschoolers and parents, school-aged children, seniors and mixed-age families.

Diversity is Divine!

Songs from around the world in different languages — African, Japanese, Spanish, French, and even sign language. What do we share in common and what makes us different? We'll have fun exploring the music that children of other cultures sing!
